

The Mainz Research School of Translational Biomedicine (TRANSMED) offers programs that train young medical and natural science graduates in basic and translational research to enable them to become future leaders in the fields of biomedicine and translational research, in academia, as well as in the pharmaceutical industry. TRANSMED is jointly run by four Faculties of the Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz (JGU): University Medical Center, Biology, Chemistry/Pharmaceutical Sciences/Geosciences, and Social Sciences/Media/Sports.

TRANSMED invites applications for a

TRANSMED Fellowship/PhD Candidate Position (TV UM Mainz, EG13, 65%)

The fellowship is available for 24 months and needs to be started on January 1, 2025. In order for the application to be considered, the candidate must already be admitted to the TRANSMED PhD Program. If this is not yet the case, the candidate hereby automatically applies for admission to the TRANSMED PhD Program.

We expect:

- An outstanding Master of Science or German Diploma degree in life or natural sciences (e.g., biology, biochemistry, etc.)
- High motivation and strong interest in translational biomedicine
- An integrative and cooperative personality
- A very good command of written and spoken English

We offer:

- An individualized structured curriculum combining research with profound insights into medical processes
- Workshops in state-of-the-art research technologies and in transferable skills
- A comprehensive mentoring program with supervision by a team of advisors

TRANSMED is committed to equal opportunity and the compatibility of family and career. It therefore explicitly encourages applications from women.
